TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

THE DUNSMUIRS REFUSE TO SEE A DELEGATION

Of the Federated Trades—Action Brought Against an Iron Moulders' Union for $10,000 Damages—Female Burglars Rob Fifty Houses Before Being Caught.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Irving M. Scott, the president of the Union Iron Works, brought suit against the Iron Molders' Union to-day. In his complaint he alleges that the union enticed competent workmen away from his shops, damaging the business to the extent of ten thousand dollars, for which amount he sues.

All Through a Prize Fight.

ARLINGTON, Md., June 19.—Frank Hannen who was knocked out in a prize fight by Wm. German has become violently insane. The reason is from injuries inflicted upon his head.

The Dunbar Explosion.

DUNBAR, Pa., June 19.—There is no hopes for the rescue of the miners alive on account of the difficult work of reaching the death chamber from Maphoning. Mining is progressing and the party are now supposed to be within twenty feet of the objective point. It is believed that another explosion occurred this morning. There was a heavy fall of earth or rock in the mine slope shutting off the draft and turning back the black smoke in the direction of the doomed men.

Another Self Destroyer.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., June 19.—A man between fifty and sixty years of age committed suicide on the steamer Mexico yesterday afternoon a few minutes before she reached the wharf here. He shot himself in the head with a pistol. His name on the passenger list was David Strong and his ticket was from San Francisco to San Diego.

The Cold Will Spoil the Fruit.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Some commission merchants say that the cold snap of March last, extending from Florida to Canada, taking in the eastern and middle states, nipping blossoms of trees, will result in a large shrinkage of the fruit supply. The peach crops of New Jersey and Delaware, which yield amounted to considerably over a million bushels, will this year hardly reach 500,000 bushels, and these would be of inferior quality.

He Would Not Serve.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Jay Gould disregarded a summons to serve on a jury to-day and the judge ordered that a fine of $500 be collected from him.

President Harrison Will Retire.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—The Critic publishes an article tending to show that Harrison intends to retire from public life at the close of his presidential term and that he will have no hesitancy in vetoing the Free Coinage Bill. It has been discovered that the Silver Bill that passed the Senate has been sent to the House Committee on coinage, weights and measures instead of to the Speaker's table as has been done always. Clerk of the House Smith says that this is the proper disposition of the bill under the new house rule. Silver men are suspicious of this move. They say it was advised by Speaker Reed and that the Coinage Committee may let the Silver Bill sleep.

The Cholera.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 19.—In consequence of the outbreak of cholera in Spain the Government has established quarantine against vessels from Spanish ports.

MADRID, June 19.—Thirteen new cases of cholera were reported at Puebla de Rugari yesterday.

The Duchess of Fife's Illness.

LONDON, June 18.—The Princess of Wales is at the bedside of her daughter, the Duchess of Fife, and the Queen will arrive there on Saturday. The Duchess is doing well, and her physicians believe that her chances of relapsing into a dangerous condition are very remote. Whether the burial of the child of the Duchess will be private or conducted with royal honors is not yet definitely known, but it is probable the latter course will be pursued.

Skeletons to Come Up.

PORTLAND, Or., June 17.—This morning was the time fixed for the hearing of the petition of Mrs. Harriett H. Campbell, asking that the last will of Mrs. Esther Holladay, appointing General Rufus Ingalls administrator of the estate, be revoked. The hearing, however, was postponed, owing to the illness of Judge Catlin, of the County Court, and will not come up till next term, over which Judge Moreland will preside. General Ingalls' counsel say that when the matter comes up for hearing there will be a legion of begrimed skeletons brought to view, such as will even horrify those most familiar with the Holladay family history.

More Ladies for Siberia.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 19.—Madame Ischebrikova and fifteen others have been removed to a remote village at Yarensk, Department of Vologoda, in the northern part of Great Russia, where they will be placed under surveillance. Madame Ischebrikova is the woman who recently wrote a remarkable letter predicting for the Czar the fate of his predecessors, Peter III., Paul I. and Alexander II., unless his reactionary policy is modified and the rigors of the treatment accorded to political offenders is not abandoned. The letter was found in the private apartments of the Czar and subsequently very generally published throughout Europe and the United States.

A Costly Blaze.

TRAVERS, Cal., June 19.—This town was visited this morning about 2:30 by a fire which started in a store of the Truver warehouse and business association, situated in the middle of a block on Front street, destroying the same and the rest of the block, consisting of the office of the land and water Co., the large store of Hirschfeldt & Co., and P. T. Baker's land office. The fire was an incendiary as a man on horseback rode away as soon as the fire broke out and was tracked four miles by the officers. The losses are as follows: Traver warehouse and business association, $10,000; Hirschfeld, $25,000; 76 company, $1,000, and P. T. Baker, about $4,000. The insurance is unknown.

QUEBEC ELECTIONS.

Mercier Will Have a Majority of Twenty-Six or Thirty.

QUEBEC, June 19.—The elections in Quebec yesterday show that Mercier will have a majority of from 26 to 30. At the last elections he had only eighteen counting the Nationalists. The large majority is a surprise to everybody.

STILL UNSETTLED.

Dunsmuir & Sons Refuse to Meet a Committee From the Federated Trades.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—R. Dunsmuir & Sons have positively refused to meet any committee from the council of the Federated Trades to arrange for a settlement of the trouble existing between the firm and the coal miners at the Wellington mines. It is reported that the Dunsmuir firm will begin evicting the families of the miners from their homes at the Wellington coal mines on July 12th.

ALASKA NEWS.

Business in Juneau Very Dull—Mining Notes From the Different Mines.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—The following is taken from a letter received from Juneau, Alaska, to-day: This place is very dull. Capital seems shy of our low grade ore as well as the richer rock. No one is making enquiry since the English and German syndicate have been bamboozled into investing in the Bearsnest. There are mountains of low grade ore in Alaska, paying all the way from $2 to $8. Many claims can be had without cash down if the buyer only honestly agrees to put up and work the stamps. The continued prosperity of the Treadwell mine alone keeps Juneau so that other careful men will come and take hold of other equally good fields, so abundant around lower Alaska.

FEMALE BURGLARS.

Two Young Girls Rob Fifty Houses Before They are Captured.

LOWELL, Mass., June 18.—Katie McNamara and Nellie Drury, each aged 14 years, were arrested to-day charged with larceny of money, jewelry, and women's wearing apparel from fifty houses in various parts of Lawrence. It was a practice of the McNamara girl to visit houses first, pretending to be deaf and dumb. If opportunity offered she plundered trunks, carrying with her a number of keys for the purpose. If there were indications when the McNamara girl visited houses that the inmates were going away she and the Drury girl subsequently entered the building by the rear windows. The McNamara girl was heard moving about in the upper portion of a house some weeks ago and surprised the occupants when they went upstairs by displaying a card inscribed "I am deaf and dumb, please help the unfortunate." Many articles of jewelry was found in her pockets and she was arrested. The case was pigeon-holed through the influence of friends. The two girls resumed operations at once, but escaped detection until to-day. At their homes the police found hats, caps, wallets and articles of jewelry.

ELECTION NOTES.

A Surprise in Alberni—Talk of Protests—Kootenay Undecided.

There was some talk in Vancouver of protesting the election of Mr. Horne on the ground of bribery. There is little probability, however, that it will amount to anything more than talk.

The returning officer for Esquimalt recorded his vote in Victoria district. This we are inclined to think is an extraordinary proceeding, and one that has seldom occurred at Canadian elections. We will not ask if it is legal, for we are to suppose that a returning officer would not do anything that is illegal, but it is in order to inquire if a man vested for the time being with judicial and executive authority is not bound to keep himself above the shadow of suspicion, and refrain from voting except as provided by law?

There is some talk of a protest in Victoria. An election protest fought to the finish might prove to be a two-edged sword that cuts both ways. If the Opposition could only have the election over again, they would return the entire ticket.

The result in Alberni is a stinging rebuke to the Government. Mr. Mollett, who loses his deposit of $200, was the Government candidate. He formerly filled the position of Government agent, which he resigned to enter the field as a candidate in the Government interest. Mr. Mollett was believed to be the strongest man and the best man for the position in the district. He is a gentleman of more than average ability, of irreproachable character, and a good speaker. He was thought to be "the man for Galway," and we ourselves looked upon it as a foregone conclusion that he would be the man elected. But it appears the electors thought differently. Mr. Fletcher was elected on the Independent platform, and, considering the total number of votes polled, by an "overwhelming majority."

The Colonist, like the boy going through the woods, is still whistling to keep its courage up. Where Government candidates ran and were beaten the blind organ "of a lost cause" still claims the constituency for the Government.

The poll in Alberni stood:

Thos. Fletcher	79
J. C. Mollett	12
Majority for Fletcher	17

The Colonist of this morning professes to have news from West Kootenay, through a private source, to the effect Mr. Kellie was elected nine votes with Big Bend division to hear from. Farwell is second.

RUINING QUARTZ MINING

OUR CORRESPONDENT HAS HIS EYES OPENED.

He Goes Into Kootenay a Sympathizer With Robson and is Converted—He Wants to Know What Else Can be Done by Robson to Discourage Mining.

It is an odd thing about our natural history that we deliberately pick out our most incompetent business men, and in the innocence of our hearts place them in charge of our affairs, giving them power of attorney to play havoc with commerce by idiotic amendments from bad to worse of our statutes, to misapply our moneys, to drain our resources, and to breed in our organism the fated cancer growth of corruption. Not having any political issues, we divide out suffrage between two parties, the Ins and the Outs, and the only way of keeping them on anything like good behavior is to give them the pasture turn about, and trust to our gods that we shall have enough grass to make it worth their while eating it. But surely, in the name of common sense, the Robson administration must by this time be gorged; for have they not been living upon our substance for eight long years.

The Robson party probably represent the interests which benefit them, for they have assuredly well nigh slain the interests which do not. Let me lay before you one of the non beneficial interests. After a curious inquisition one must realize the result of the Robson prescription upon a non-paying patient.

The patient is very nearly dead.

On Kootenay Lake there has been found a silver district. Just how rich it is or how extensive is not yet known, but the amount so far discovered proves it to be nothing less than one of the greatest mineral discoveries of this age. While Victoria has her money invested in salmon and seal fisheries, coal, placer diggings, and other enormously lucrative industries, quartz mining, with all its notable risks, and large necessities of preliminary costs, offers little attraction. So, Victoria has yet paid little attention to quartz mining. But the Americans, with their tremendous base of population in the east, their overflowing wealth and matchless commercial daring, have seen our neglected treasure, and are quite contented with the prospective risks and profits offered by a new silver district. Now we are always crying out for immigration to develop our 350,000 square miles of property. The Americans, the very choicest manhood in a manly community, with plenty of money, come here as immigrants and come, if it profits them, to stay. Where else shall we get such a class? These have strength, brains, experience and money, the most valuable of citizens. Of course we welcome them, and give them every encouragement. Have we not the Robson administration to act as our agents in making these splendid strangers at home?

Yes, we encourage railway people to open the country for them. These railway people are only too glad of charters to build lines on which the traffic will pay them from the outset. So our agents, the Executive, are very kind to the friendly railways, give them unlimited charters, and throw in one-sixth of our public domain gratis, merely to please them and make them feel happy. What these companies pay for being made happy with one-sixth of our domain we dare not ask of our servants the ministry.

Well, having been pleased with a present of our lands, the companies say they would be still more pleased if they got the minerals too. Certainly, we give them 5 per cent. of any profits that may be earned on their lands by honest mining men. The books of the mining men shall be liable to inspection by the railway companies; for all men being free and equal, the railway companies have a perfect right to see all the books they please; and common carriers are surely entitled to a five per cent toll on the steel highway. Curiously enough Mr. Mackay, the great California millionaire, and a number of others interested in our mines, at present left the country. They were so ungracious as to object to railway peeper, or any other common carriers, inspecting their accounts and collecting a per centage of their profits. Ungrateful Mr. Mackay!

But the American prospector must be encouraged too. We had always favored the prospector, he being nearly always as poor as he is hardy, by collecting from him a license, and a school tax; the first because the exploration of our country is the most splendid service that man can render to us, the second because he has no children to educate. But now that prospectors are coming from the United States in large numbers and discovering in West Kootenay such mines as the Bluebell and the Silver King, we will raise the charge on any mineral locations he may record hereafter in the railway lands from $2.50 to $105. Surely this encouragement will lead to further discovery and location of mineral prospects by men who have no money as a rule, and who are climbing into the recesses of our most savage mountains with hundred pound packs on their backs.

What more can we do to encourage these American immigrants, these hardy miners, these daring speculators who want to take homes among us? We have already sealed up a sixth part of our public lands to be a howling wilderness in perpetuity. We have forbidden the mining capitalist by the potent threat of charging him $105 on his discovery. We have bent over the head of the mine owner the enjoyment of a hope that he would have the privilege of contributing to our revenue duties on any machinery he might want, and have exacted that his books shall be open for inspection and his earnings shared by the railway man. What more can we do to despoil the West Kootenay, to seal up those vast treasures of silver and prevent them from sustaining a flourishing and industrious community. Perhaps the Robson administration can devise some more schemes.

In the name of common sense, oh! guileless and confiding citizens, have pity on your unfortunate Province—get rid of this miserable administration.

H. R. A. POCOCK.

Kootenay, June 14.

DISCOVERED BY ACCIDENT.

How the Hall Brothers Found the Famous Rise on Toad Mountain.

Among the names given to localities in the west, which illustrate the poverty of the language or the illiteracy of the pioneers, that of Toad mountain deserves pre-eminence. In the contour of the mountain there is no resemblance to that despised reptile, nor is it alleged to have any special attractions as a place of their resort. Indeed, the miners who hold the mountain in possession resent the contemptible appellation, and with more regard to respectability, if not novelty, claim the name of "Mineral" mountain. In the fall of 1886 some prospectors from Washington Territory were scouring tributaries of the Kootenay river in search of placer mining prospects. Some of their pack horses strayed away, and a few of their young men went in pursuit. At an altitude of about 4000 feet above the Kootenay river, which at this point is 1800 feet above sea level, they came upon rock of mineral appearance, of which they carried down samples as curiosities. These proved to be what is known as "peacock" copper ore, which is beautifully variegated in shades of green, blue and copper colors. The prospectors took the samples to their home in Colville, W. T., where, upon assay, they proved to be not only rich in copper, but in silver as well. The discoverers kept their secret as well as they could until the disappearance of snow in the spring would give them a chance to locate the mine and stake out their claims. In the spring of 1887, the Hall Bros., consisting of two elderly men of that name, with their sons and nephews, to the number of thirteen in all, returned to "Toad" or "Mineral," mountain, and other prospectors followed upon their trail. Upon their discovery of the lead, the Halls secured two claims, now named the "Silver King" and the "Bonanza," and upon a parallel lead, or perhaps a feeder of the first, made a third location, the "American Flag." Extensions upon the main lead, or edge, were secured by other parties to a total length of four miles, but on all sides of the mountain claims have since been staked off and recorded to a total number of more than one hundred. The camp has been visited by a large number of mining men, theoretical and practical, and the unanimous verdict from all has been, that so far as indications can be relied upon, a deposit of ore of the very first magnitude has been struck, with more than a possibility that the discoveries that have made Leadville, Virginia City and Butte City famous will be thrown in the shade by this new find. Toad mountain is situated on the south bank of the Kootenay River, below the Lower Kootenay Lake, about twenty-five miles above the junction of the Kootenay with the Columbia, which junction is again about thirty-five miles north of the international boundary and about eighty-five miles above Colville, the first place of any note in Washington Territory. Mr. Atkins, an English gentleman of capital and experience, is reported to have secured a half interest in the Hall Mines, and it is to be hoped that the report is true, for all that is required to make the district one of the largest producers of bullion on the continent is capital and a knowledge of how best to use it.

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

Articles of agreement have been signed between G. Perrie of Vancouver, and Matsada Serokichi for a match at wrestling. The match will take place on Tuesday, June 24th, at the city of Vancouver. The styles for the match shall be catch-as-catch-can for the first fall; Graeco-Roman for the second fall; the style for the third fall to be chosen on the night of the match. The match shall be for $500 (five hundred dollars) a side, the man winning two falls in three to take the money. It is also agreed on the part of G. Perrie, one of the parties of this agreement, that he will reduce his net weight to 145 pounds, which shall be tested twenty-four hours before the match takes place. The match shall take place in the Imperial Opera House, and the receipts taken at the door shall be divided as follows: be the contestants after all expenses have been paid, viz., seventy-five of the net receipts to the winner of the match and twenty-five per cent. to the loser. Police Gazette rules shall govern the match.

BASEBALL.

The secretary of the James Bay baseball club is endeavoring to make arrangements with the Nanaimo nine to play a friendly match in that city on the 28th of this month. The Nanaimo nine who played the match with the James Bay club here last Saturday speak very highly of the manner in which they were entertained by their opponents, and it is very probable the challenge will be accepted.

A FEMALE ATHLETE.

An athletic exhibition under Prof. Foster will be given in the Philharmonic Hall on Saturday evening. O'Brien, a lightweight boxer will on that occasion spar four rounds with Miss Alice Jenkins, the Police Gazette female champion boxer. Hughes will, it is said, on other exhibitions will be given to wrestle with four rustlers, namely Swanson O'Brien and Prof. Foster.

A DINNER TABLE TALK.

MR. SCRIBBLE AND THE JUDGE DISCUSS CURRENT TOPICS.

Corporal Punishment in Schools—The Great Question of Single Tax and Land Nationalization Morally and Legally Explained by the Court.

"Let us see," said Mr. Scribble, "we suspended conversation at corporal punishment. Shall we continue the theme, and if so will the Court proceed?"

"It is not worth while," responded the Judge. "Corporal punishment is just as necessary to preserve discipline among school children, as is section nine of the School Act to insure the fealty of the school teachers to the so-called Minister of Education. The rod exemplifies force; section nine of the School Act is in the same category. On the same principle that the school teachers preserve discipline by flourishing the rod, so does the so-called Minister of Education hope to crush all who venture to differ from him by flourishing an act of Parliament conceived in a lust for power and the determination to hold it just so long as there were fools enough in the Legislature to subscribe to it. There is no real difference between a club composed of fibrous vegetable matter and a legislative enactment which vests an individual with discretionary power. However, the question of corporal punishment is a dead letter. The moral is not that teachers have been brutal, but the Department of Education, rather. It was the duty of the Department to have prescribed the character of the rod to be used in the schools. The fact that the Department permitted the use of the rawhide shows the dimness of their moral perceptions."

"I see," said Mr. Scribble, changing the subject with some abruptness, "that a land league has been started in the city. Remarkable, is it not, there should be an organization of that kind in a country where there is yet land to be homesteaded?"

"Single tax," replied the judge, "is the outcome of the passion for land grabbing. Men are not content with a farm, they must have a principality, and they hold it for speculative purposes. Our business men having more capital on hand than they know well what to do with, invest it in wild land property, and there let it lie until approaching civilization makes the land valuable. The transaction on the face of it is a perfectly square one, and in many instances tends to develop localities sooner than would be the case if the land was left to be occupied as the law contemplates by the gradual accretion of small farmers. There can be no question about it, the concentration of capital of late years has been of immense benefit. Indeed, without it the country would not have been developed near so rapidly. Nevertheless, the ultimate consequences are pernicious. The result is Landlordism, the wringing out of the tenant the utmost fruits of his labor over and above a bare livelihood. Landlordism and Democracy are antitheses. They cannot co-exist in harmonious relation under a policy of government where all men are free and equal. Democracy means something more than political equality. It means the recognition of certain moral rights, the right to live and let live. It means, if it means anything, that a man's right to make money, to acquire land for instance, is limited not by his ability to acquire, but by the quantity he may acquire without detriment to the common weal. It does not follow that because a man possesses transcendent abilities that he should use them for himself alone. Politically he has the right to do so; morally, however, he is bound to consult public interests in conjunction with his own. This is transcendentalism, you will say, but it is the essence of Democracy, and without it a democracy is a worse curse than a despotism."

"Have you any idea that single tax will really mitigate poverty?" inquired Mr. Scribble.

"Unquestionably it will," replied the judge. "Land monopoly takes from labor an undue share of its profits. The nationalization of land would give everybody a chance to cultivate land who cared to, at a nominal rental value as compared with the figures land rents are bringing at present. If the land was nationalized the outlay of the tenant would be merely his proportion of tax or rent that is required for the support of government. Let me illustrate. Under the present land labor, whereas under the present dispensation a lessee is mulcted anywhere from 6 to 10 per cent. for the privilege of making an honest living."

"That's it," said the Judge. "The tenant has the use of the capital of the Government minus the tax required for the support of the Government."

"But how is it," inquired Mr. Scribble, "that a system which promises to ameliorate poverty meets with such determined opposition?"

"That," answered the Judge, "is owing to the ingrained belief that private ownership of land is the correct thing, and that the nationalization of land is not."

"But if it can be shown that the private ownership of land is the consequence of the usurpation of the people's rights, why should not land owners be made to disgorge," rejoined Mr. Scribble.

"Oh," replied the Judge, "if you choose to look at the question from a moral point of view there is no chance for argument. Legally speaking, however, there are serious impediments to so radical a change. You have heard of vested rights, I suppose, and all that sort of thing?"

"Yes," said Mr. Scribble, "I have heard of such things, but it seems to me we are not consistent for all. If I should buy a piece of land from you and the title was imperfect, I should lose it in the event of somebody turning up who could show a better title."

"Quite true," admitted the Judge.

"Now if landlords," continued Mr. Scribble, "hold the land by an imperfect title, that is to say the people have an inalienable and inherent right to the land, what is the reason they cannot be dispossessed?"

"Landlords," replied the Judge, "are, according to Henry George, morally dispossessed at this moment, but there is a vast difference between moral dispossession and actual possession. So long as the landlords see fit to hold the land argument goes for nothing."

"Will the landlords ever submit, do you suppose, to the George system," queried Mr. Scribble.

"Nothing is more certain than that the great mass of them will never submit until they are forced to," replied the Judge.

"I should say, then," said Mr. Scribble, "that single tax is a long way off."

"We, of course, will never see it," replied the Judge. "Things, however, move rapidly now-a-days, and before another century shall have elapsed great changes will take place. It is vaguely understood by the working classes that they are laboring under conditions not wholly fair to them. They feel that they are handicapped somehow, that a bare living is not sufficient remuneration for their labor. The middle classes are largely in sympathy with them, and the consequence will be that when the struggle for a living shall have become a little bit keener there will be an overwhelming movement in favor of land reform. The movement in fact is on foot now in the shape of concessions to labor urged partly through a sense of justice and partly through fear, and another century will witness extraordinary changes."

NEW MAP OF AFRICA.

Germany and England Divide the Continent—Britain takes Lion's Share.

LONDON, June 17.—Lord Salisbury's dispatch to British Ambassador Albert, concerning the agreement with Germany's claim that where one power occupies the coast another may not, without consent, occupy unclaimed regions in the rear can not be allowed in cases where the country is already occupied by Englishmen, but where there was no English settlements England has no title to advance against German claim.

The agreement in substance is as follows: England retains Stevenson road, which will be the boundary between the English and German spheres. A line shall be stretched from the mouth of the Bourka on the west shore of Lake Albert Nyanza to the mouth of the Klimo, on the south shore of Lake Tanganyika. Northward Germany retains the region as far as the Congo state and along the first degree of south latitude, the boundary diverging round the western shore of Albert Nyanza to include the mountain of Miumbro, in the British sphere, in order to make the frontier coincide as nearly as possible with the region covered by Stanley's treaties.

In all the East African territories equal rights of settling or trading shall be conferred by the two parties respectively on their subjects. Details of the frontier between Ngamiland Damaraland remain to be settled, but is agreed from the latitude of Lake Ugami up as far as the eighteenth degree of south latitude the German frontier shall coincide with the twenty-first degree of east longitude. In Togeland the frontier is rectified, securing the mouth of the Volta to England, and giving Germany access to the Volta river at the highest point of its course.

Germany cedes the islands of Manda and Patta Somali, comprising a coast line of over 300 miles to England, so that except the Congo state there will be no competition with British influence between the first degree of south latitude and the borders of Egypt along the whole country lying south and west of the Italian protectorate. Germany consents that England shall assume an exclusive protectorate in the sultanate of Zanzibar and Pemba. England will assist Germany to obtain cession of the German coast line hitherto rented from the sultan.

England, considering Heligoland useless since she lost Hanover, will cede it to Germany, subject to the consent of Parliament. The present customs tariff shall be continued twenty years. Other colonial disputes in Africa statu quo will be preserved pending ratification of the present agreement.

LONDON, June 18.—Lord Salisbury's surrender to Germany is the main topic of discussion, and its ratification by Parliament is somewhat doubtful. The objecters to the Premier's concessions, however, are by no means consistent. The Radicals, for instance, admit that the abandonment of the cession of Heligoland in return for the German concessions in Africa, but they declare their inability to see that the Germans have made any concessions. It is probable, however, that they would have been just as blind for political purposes if Germany had surrendered her entire interest in Africa and withdrawn her last man from that territory. The Liberals are a little less inconsistent than the radicals, but will still oppose the agreement, when it comes before Parliament, for purely political reasons.

THE ENGLISH DERBY.

Almost a Sacred Institution to the British —Everybody Attends.

Chicago Post: The English Derby is an institution with no parallel in the world of sport. It is to the Britisher as sacred an institution as the Fourth of July is to the American small boy, only ever so much more so. If it were put to of the popular vote of the English people to-morrow whether it were better to demolish the whole navy or the Derby, the result would surely tend toward the annihilation of her maritime power; and even with this fact in mind no one who has any thing like a correct conception of what the Derby means. All London turns out to see it. There have been over a quarter of a million people—princes, thieves and paupers, duches, barmaids and heteræ—packed together in countless battalions to watch the big race on Epsom Downs. Away in the early morning the vast concourse starts for the course. The first comers are the peddlers, thieves, tricksters showmen and sharpers; the next to arrive the great masses of the British public; the later ones are the princes and titled ones, the swells, the aristocracy of the modern Rome.

The grand stand, the club stand and the prince's stand tower high above the course, facing the finish post. Along on either side of them, on the outside of the course, the crowd is gathered and squashed from Tottenham corner down to the road. Carriages, hansoms, drags, brakes, cabs and costermongers' barrows commingled with the plethora of humanity like raisins in a pudding, and on every side rise the yells of peddlers, the whines of beggars, the songs of itinerant minstrels and gypsy singers and the shouts of the scattered bookmakers as they bet against the favorite of the field. Within the course it is just the same, save that private stands erected by private speculators, who charge admission fees of anywhere from a shilling to half a crown, take the place of the monster stands on the other side of the track.

That track, by the way, is the green, springy turf of the downs, without any artificiality about it. The field is free for all the world. Prince and pauper, thief and constable enjoy like privileges there. Even the unfathered mongrel who invariably gets in front of the horses at the start, is entitled to a right of way there. It is a public common, the inherited home of the gypsy and the nomad. By 2 o'clock the crowd is as thick as a crowd can be, and no brighter, gayer, more varied sight can be imagined than the spectacle presented by the common. Then at 2:30 the race is called, the betting is redoubled in vivacity, the bookmakers in strangest harlequin garments and multi-colored hats redouble their yells and odds. The welshers slip out in the turmoil and excitement of public enthusiasm, the horses start. "They're off" shouts some one. "They're off" re-echo some 200,000. Then a silence falls over all, and settles there for maybe a minute. Tattenham corner is passed; the weaker ones are out of it, only the stayers are left behind. Yell after yell goes up; yell after yell and cheer after cheer. Many are silent, for the favorite is a goner; but still the excitement catches nearly everybody save those who are hit too hard. "Sainfoin wins!" they shriek; "Le Nord wins!" "Sainfoin!" "Orwell wins!" "Le Nord's winning!" A pause, and then a murmur like the distant roar of a cataract. "Sainfoin wins!" The derby is over.

Duels in Italy.

For the decade 1880-90 the duel statistics of Italy record for the entire kingdom, 9,759 duels, most of them military. The hotter the weather the more duels, while in very cold winter spells the figures tapered off. Thus seven-eighths of the whole number took place in summer and one-eighth in winter. Only 50 deaths resulted out of all of these duels, 90 of which were fought with the sword, 2,480 with the sabre, and the rest with the pistol. Ordinary quarrels produced 730; press and political discussions, 1,322; love, 183; religious questions, 29. Most of the duels took place at Naples, and the fewest at Venice.

At a recent drawingroom held by the Queen, enough jewelry, says London Truth, was lost to have stocked a small shop. The crowding and pushing at the barriers were so terrific that several unlucky women had their dresses and feathers seriously damaged, and two ladies passed through the throne-room with fearfully dishevelled hair. However, the jewelry which is lost at the court is always well looked after, so that the ultimate property is generally regained by the owners.

Moses Had Asthma.

My husband had asthma for eight years with severe cough, and his lungs also were affected. He could neither rest, work nor get relief from any medicine he tried. Some time ago we got Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and after taking six or eight bottles his cough is entirely cured, the asthma greatly relieved, and his lungs greatly benefitted. Mrs. Moses Copen, Apsley, Ont.

STUBBORN SAVAGES.

China's Dearly-Bought Conquest of the Island of Formosa.

The Chinese troops in Formosa have at last completely defeated the savages who have so long defied them. The savage people have never waged a more stubborn resistance than these tribes of Southeastern Formosa. Since the Chinese occupied the island in 1874 they have contested inch by inch the possession of their magnificent mountains, among the loftiest in the world, where they declared they would maintain their independence or perish.

Here is an island lying directly in the highway of ocean travel, and whose northern part has large relations with the commercial world; and yet, owing to the ferocity of the natives of Malayan descent who dwell in its southeastern regions, fully a quarter of the country has never been explored, and we do not know to-day whether such a thing as a good harbor exists along the coast. The shores of Formosa have been the terror of sailors, for to be shipwrecked on this inhospitable cost meant speedy death at the hands of the natives. Among the latest occurrences of this sort was the massacre of the British ship Rover, including Mrs. Hunt, the captain's wife. The natives said later that they would not have killed her, but they did not know that she was a woman.

A few years ago a party from a British war-ship landed among the savages in force too strong to be in danger of molestation. A shooting match at a distance of about one hundred yards was arranged with the natives, who were armed with matchlocks. A target was nailed to a tree and the English first displayed their marksmanship with very satisfactory results. The natives did not seem at all surprised, but suddenly disappeared in the underbrush, and presently were seen crawling on their stomachs toward the target. When they were in about six feet of it they blazed away and, of course, hit the target in the center. The English protested that this was not exactly a fair contest. "Well," replied the natives, "we don't know whether it's fair or not, but it's the way we kill Chinese, and it's good enough for us."

All along the western side of the narrow island Chinese settlements have arisen, even just before them the great mountain range whose summits they have seen every morning illumined by the rising sun, has been as inaccessible as though an impassable gulf stretched between. Only in martial array have the Chinese dared to invade uplands, and even then their progress has been slow and uncertain, and they have had many a rough experience. Once a party of 250 Chinese soldiers who formed an advance post were killed to a man. In the campaign of 1875 the Chinese lost about 1,000 men by sickness, and for some years all attempts to hold ground that had been won were abandoned during the rainy season, on account of the decimation of the army by disease.

Thus the war has been waging for years in a desultory way. It is a curious fact that China has regarded Formosa as experimental ground where Western innovations might be safely tried and proven before they were permitted to gain a foothold on the Chinese mainland. The result is that Northern Formosa has been more open to Western influences, and has recently been making better progress than any other part of the Chinese dominions; and, while that part of the island has been advancing by really surprising strides under the impetus of Western capital, the little region in the southeast has been closed against all the world. It is gratifying news that the barriers have at last been broken down. Even the spread of Chinese civilization there will be a great blessing in comparison with the state of things that has made this corner of the beautiful island a menace to all who approached its.—N. London Social Life.

I am glad to come home and see my friends, but ah! there is a great charm in London social life. Nowhere are artists, scientists, journalists and literary people received with such open handed hospitality. There, as in no other part of the world, do they receive the recognition and distinction due them. People in London do not think only of a fine house and long bank account. Let the artist come with good credentials, and he is well received. He may live in one room, his refinement and culture will be sufficient for him to gain an "entree" into the best society.—New York Letter.

MARVELS OF HYPNOTISM.

Experiments Which Are Baffling the Comprehension of the Experts.

The end I have ever held before my eyes then, and which I hope I have never lost from view, is this: To study the hypnotic phenomena according to a strictly scientific method, and for this purpose to employ processes purely physical and which always can be compared with one another, so that the results obtained by me may be rigorously tested by all observers who shall use the same processes under the same conditions. Take one example from among a thousand. I present to a woman patient in the hypnotic state a blank leaf of paper and say to her: "Here is my portrait. What do you think of it? Is it a good likeness?" After a moment's hesitation she answers: "Yes, indeed, your photograph; will you give it to me?" To impress deeply in the mind of the subject this imaginary portrait I point with my finger toward one of the four sides of the square leaf of paper, and tell her that my profile looks in that direction; I describe my clothing. The image now being fixed in her mind I take that leaf of paper and mix it with a score of other leaves precisely like it. I then hand over the whole pack to the patient, bidding her to go over them and let me know whether she finds among these anything she has seen before. She begins to look at the leaves one after another, and as soon as her eyes fall upon the one first shown to her (I had made upon it a mark which she could not discern), forthwith she exclaims, "Look, your portrait!"

What is more curious still, if I turn the leaf upside down, as soon as her eyes rest upon it, she turns it over, saying my photograph is on the obverse. I then convey to her the order that she shall continue to see the portrait even after the hypnosis has passed! Then I awaken her and again hand to her the pack of papers, requesting her to look over them. She handles them just as before when she was hypnotized, and utters the same exclamation, "Look, your portrait!" If now I tell her that she may retire, she returns to her dormitory, and her first care will be to show her companions the photograph I have given her. Of course her companions, not having received the suggestion, will see only a blank leaf of paper, without any trace whatever of a portrait, and will laugh at our subject and treat her as a visionary. Furthermore, this suggestion, this hallucination, will if I wish continue several days. All I have to do is to express the wish to the patient before awakening her.

The foregoing experiment has been made hundreds of times by me and by others, and the fact can easily be substantiated; their objectivity is as complete as could be wished in researches of the kind. Hypnotism is directly amenable to our means of investigation, and must needs be an integral part of the known domain of science; to that goal our efforts ought to be directed.—Cor. Forum.

A Famous Scout's Nerve.

Biedler, the famous Montana scout, was as intrepid as he was fertile of resources in danger. One time at Miles City he came out of the door to find himself within twenty inches of the muzzle of a 44 calibre revolver in the hands of a noted desperado on whose trail the deputy marshal had of times camped.

"I'm goin' to blow the innards out of your skull, you vigilante hound," quoth the bad man.

"Not with that thing," said "X" (the scout's pseudonym), in a conversational but semi-querelous tone. "It ain't cocked."

The bad man threw up the pistol to see if Biedler was right, and made the mistake of a life which ended right there.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Advice to Smokers.

If you are a smoker, and don't own a cigar case, carry your cigars in your upper waistcoat pocket, on the left, with the mouth end down. The constant motion of the right arm (presuming you are right handed) is sure to crush the tobacco or loosen the wrapper if the cigar be on the right side, and the same result is more readily attained with the match end down. If you have to let a cigar go out, do not pull in the last puff, but blow it through the burning end. This expels the moisture that would otherwise gather at the mouth, and prevents the cigar from having a rank taste. Indeed, some smokers question whether a cigar is not improved by this method of reducing it to an "old soldier."—Illustrated American.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Regarding the arrest of editor DURHAM of the Spokane Falls Review for contempt of court, the question arises, how far may a newspaper go in the treatment of a case sub judice. A newspaper, it is urged, may do great evil by such freedom of utterance. It may serve to weaken the courts in popular respect, or it may subject the jury to violent pressure. To this assumption the Oregonian remarks that, "theoretically this is possible, but practically the fearless editor does nothing of the sort. He simply states the fact that justice has been grievously mocked in several instances; that the people are shocked; and that they trust it will not be the fault of the court or the jury if another desperado escapes justice. If courts grow careless or juries grow sentimental or partisan in the judgment of the public, there is no harm wrought in giving that public opinion editorial expression." But this does not settle the vexed question. Imagine a newspaper preluding a case before the courts or commenting upon it afterward as one in which "justice has been grievously mocked." If it is contempt to so speak of a case which is sub judice how would it strike the judicial ear to have such remarks passed after the case has been decided. Clearly if it be indispensible that courts of law be not weakened in the popular estimation, newspaper criticism must be carefully guarded. But the fact of the matter is, the public need not be told whether a court has been unduly severe or unduly lenient. The public somehow has a means of arriving at such conclusions without editorial assistance, witness lynch law in the States, and the case of MRS. MAYBRICK in England. Certain it is that the Spokane editor seems to have been justified in his contempt of court, still it must be apparent to any thoughtful person that any language calculated to weaken the integrity of the courts in the opinion of the people is attended with danger, if not with that unsettlement of the social system which precedes anarchy.

STEAD'S ENTERPRISE.

That WILLIAM STEAD, late editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, possesses the journalistic instinct which would earn for him, were he on the press of this city, the slightly approbrious designation of a "wretched reporter," is painfully evident the more we hear of him. Mr. STEAD just now is sojourning on the continent, at a place called Oberammergau, the home of the Passion play. Here, pursuant to the instinct which Sir MATTHEW BEDBIE deprecates in the newspaper man, he presented himself at the theatre armed with a photographic apparatus, set it up near the stage and proceeded to take a few negatives for his private delectation. "Caphias," the High Priest, unfortunately, and who is also burgomaster of the town, espied the camera from the stage and sent a messenger to negative proceedings. STEAD at once complied. A second messenger, however, was sent, requesting that the views already taken be given up or destroyed. This the London editor declined to do, "said in fact that he hoped to get away with a few good pictures anyhow." "Come with me," said the messenger, who was a police officer, and he grabbed Mr. STEAD and led him away to the burgomaster's office. Arrived at the office CAPHIAS demanded the plates. STEAD replied by showing him a document granting him the privilege of the indiscriminate use of the "kodak." The burgomaster at once released him and it is said that STEAD enjoyed the experience greatly, inasmuch as it gave him an opportunity to meet the burgomaster's daughter who plays the part of the Virgin MARY, and who presented him with her picture. Victorious STEAD! A faint heart never made a live journalist.

THE TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS DEPOSIT.

The Colonist attempts to defend the $200 deposit for candidates, putting forth as its principal argument that good men have plenty of friends who will put up for them, and citing the case of a tavern keeper who brought out a candidate himself that the election should not pass away without eclat. All such arguments as these are pure rot. They are in fact a repetition of what the Attorney-General said in the House when he introduced the bill. Of all the sights in this world fit to make angels weep it is the sight of the Attorney-General posing as a moralist and the Colonist repeating his hackneyed arguments. The TIMES has already spoken against the law as a blow at every salaried man who should aspire to the Legislative Assembly. The law hurts the poor man but in no sense does it deter demagogues from running or prevent corporate institutions from putting their candidates in the field by the score. There is just as much danger of rival corporate institutions flooding the country with candidates as there is of labor organizations and single tax societies. But the law is not levelled at the rich, because the deposit requirement is not large enough. It is a blow at labor, notaing more or less, a sneaking underhand blow under the specious argument of public interest. But the animus of the law is too palpable to require discussing. The law should be repealed. It serves only to curb the evil propensities of tavern-keepers and poor men, without restraining in the least the putting forward of candidates in behalf of corporate interests.

PRINCIPAL GRANT ON OUR COUNTRY'S DISGRACES.

Principal GRANT, of Queen's University, delivered an address before the Presbyterian General Assembly last week which deserves wide publicity. It is the more important as the speaker has always shown himself to have a decided leaning to the present Conservative party. He said:

"Coming to the question of political immorality in Canada he pointed out that public contractors were openly telling of the enormous sums of money levied upon them by political wire-pullers in order that the people might be corrupted and elections won. Speaking of Mr. Rykert's case he said the highest court in the land—the high court of parliament—had pronounced one of its members guilty of discreditable, corrupt and scandalous conduct, and added that it was shocking to find that a man thus condemned had been re-elected and declared worthy to represent a constituency in parliament. The retiring moderator declared that those who refused to vote and work against Mr. Rykert's return shared the guilt of those who voted for him—showing that they cared more for a partizan triumph than for the honor of their country. This declaration was received with applause by the assembly."

But, as the retiring moderator remarked, there are other evils "which threaten the life of the nation," and with respect to which it may be the duty of the Presbyterian general assembly to speak out in distinct terms. Sir Richard Cartwright declared in parliament that the Rykert case was but "a single peak of a whole mountain range of undeveloped rascality" and the subsequent disclosures in the Caraquet railway case, the Three Rivers Dead Meat company; the McGreevy Quebec harbor scandal, the Hickey railway deal and other outrageous jobs fully justified his statement. The Rykert case is simply the legitimate outcome of the federal government's policy of dealing with Northwest timber limits. Mr. Rykert's defence is that he should not be singled out for punishment when dozens of other members of the House of Commons are voting public money into their own pockets every day. Has the Presbyterian church no opinion to offer with respect to the conduct of ministers of the crown and members of parliament who vote tens of thousands of dollars of public money every year as subsidies to railways owned by themselves? Can we have an independent or a pure parliament when such proceedings are permitted? Has the church no message with respect to a tariff policy which enables a few manufacturers and monopolists to charge the 'toiling masses' exhorbitant prices for everything they have to buy? Is it not the duty of the Presbyterian church of Canada to stand up for the masses against the classes, and to condemn a system which enables the wealthy to combine together and grind the faces of the poor, by destroying competition, keeping up prices and keeping wages down? Is not the conduct of the Premier who levies tribute upon manufacturers and monopolists at election times for the purpose of keeping his party in power and continuing the aforesaid monopolists in their unjust privileges, a legitimate subject for discussion in the general assembly? And should the 'immorality in high places' referred to so pointedly by Rev. Dr. Carman, the superintendent of the Methodist church, a few days ago, be passed over unnoticed? If the general assembly of the Presbyterian church now in session here deals with the evils which threaten the life of our young nation, and upon which it is in duty bound to pronounce, it will accomplish much good, and set a noble example to other Christian bodies."

"A MISERABLE CREATURE LIKE THAT."

Is a district to be put to the trouble and expense of holding an election for the sake of gratifying the vanity of a miserable creature like that?"—Colonist.

We might retort, is a district to be put to the trouble and expense of holding an election that in the event of JOHN ROSSOS being defeated in one district he can fall back on another. The Hon JOHN ROSSOS stands for two districts. He cannot represent both, and consequently in the event of his election in both, another election must be held in one of them. Is it right that the country should be put to the expense of holding another election in this case? It seems to us that where a man runs for two districts in order to render his election doubly sure, as did the Hon. JOHN ROSSOS in this case, he ought to be made to bear the expense of the extra election himself. The law is an outrage anyhow, as exemplifying the spirit and intent of representative government. The man who prates to the effect that a district should not be put to the "trouble and expense of holding an election for the sake of gratifying a miserable creature like that," in defence of the $200 deposit law, is either deficient of logic, or is a canting hypocrite.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

We understand that Colonel BAKER is elected by a majority of three. It would have been supposed that the gallant Colonel, having subscribed to the Royalty clause, and having hanged himself in the noose of the Mineral Act, his constituency would have cut him down only to hold his funeral obsequies as a public man. Instead of that, however, they send him back to the House to misrepresent them. Kootenay is to be congratulated upon the singular wisdom with which it exercises the ballot.

It will be remembered that some time ago the U. S. man-of-war Iroquois left San Francisco for Samoa, but subsequently fetched up at Port Townsend her crew nearly starved. From Port Townsend the decrepit old craft was taken to San Francisco again and refitted for her long journey. Last Saturday this redoubtable man of war left San Francisco for Samoa again. Outside the heads she dipped into a head sea and carried away her bow sprit and divers other paraphernalia connected with her sailing gear, and at once put about for the city, which she reached a few hours later. There must be a deal of blundering in Uncle Sam's "navee," that good money should be spent repairing an old tub which can neither sail nor steam, which is in fact utterly unseaworthy. It would be cheaper, one would suppose, to charter a passenger steamer for the warlike purposes the Iroquois is intended to subserve. Possibly, the supply of naval officers exceeding the demand, the object of the naval department in keeping such ships as the Iroquois in commission is for the purpose of drowning a few of them.

If there is any one thing this election has demonstrated, other than that the Government is practically "snowed under," it is the stupidity of that human animal—the elector. The expression, "you don't know beans with the bag open," seems to apply to quite a percentage of voters in the more thickly settled districts, and for the simple reason that they can't get it through their heads that a simple cross opposite the name of their candidate is all that is required. The record in Westminster district shows that could the elector have exercised as much sense in marking his ballot as in selecting his candidate, the Hon. JOHN ROSSON would have been compelled to represent Cariboo. In other words, the Premier would have been defeated in his district. According to the Columbian Mr. ROSSOS heads the poll "on a mere technicality, while it is questionable if he might not properly have been placed third on the list. But the Columbian does not stop here. "Although declared to be at the head of the poll," the Columbian continues, by the official re-count, "by the actual vote of the electors Mr. ROSSOS is not only not at the head, but in reality not elected; for the re-count also showed, what we anticipated that a majority of the votes cast for HERRING and SINCLAIR would have gone to the Independent ticket had those gentlemen not been in the field. The returns from the district conclusively show THAT THE ACTUAL MAJORITY OF THE ELECTORS WERE IN FAVOR OF THE INDEPENDENT TICKET, recounts, technicalities and unpatriotic vote-splitting to the contrary notwithstanding."

MR. TYLER TO MR. MESHER.

TO THE EDITOR:—Please to allow me a small space in your columns to reply to Mr. George Mesher. The conversation was with Mr. Mesher, sen., not George Mesher, and I am prepared to swear that it is correct. He made the statement in my own house. When Mr. Mesher got through with his speech I told Mr. Mesher to tell Mr. Higgins that he could not offer me a greater insult than to send him for my vote. I could say a good deal more if I had a mind to. As regards George Mesher I always found him a gentleman, but I cannot allow him to accuse me of a falsehood. I am here 20 years and I think my word will be taken.

WILLIAM TYLER.

MR. ROOKLIDGE REPLIES.

TO THE EDITOR:—G. Mesher says in reply to "British Columbian" that he is the Mesher who gave me $300 worth of lumber without security. I am happy to inform you he is not the Mesher, for the simple reason that I was never in his employ; nor ever did he discharge me. But he (the Mesher I refer to) assisted me for informing him, after being asked, that I would vote the Reform ticket. I can produce a number of sober men to prove I was the assaulted party. The Mesher "British Columbian" is hunting for is Geo. Mesher, father of contractor G. M. Mesher, a gentleman worthy of the respect of all his employees, whom I never insulted nor spoke of other than as a gentleman, in whose employ I have been for the last 20 months.

LIVERPOOL, B.C.

The Fraser River Terminus of the New Westminster Southern Railway,

Opposite the rapidly growing City of New Westminster, and having deep water frontage on Fraser River.

The New Westminster Southern Railway runs from Liverpool to Fairhaven, Wash., where it connects with the great Northern Pacific Railway system. The Railway Company has now under construction at Liverpool a wharf 700 feet in length, costing about $10,000, and they intend to immediately erect workshops, passenger and freight stations, etc. The road is already graded between Liverpool and Fairhaven, and it is expected that trains will be in operation between the two places by 30th August, 1890.

A portion of the town site will be on the market on and after 16th June instant, and lots will be sold at low prices for a short time, and purchasers will have the benefit of first prices.

EXPLANATORY.

TO THE EDITOR: With reference to the presents made the Rev. J. E. Starr immediately prior to his departure from the city, kindly mentioned by you in this evening's issue, I wish with your permission to state that only two of the three articles mentioned were from the Chinese Mission. The ebony cane was presented by the genial architect of the new church, Mr. Hooper. Yours respectfully,

JNO. ENDICOTT GARDNER.

Victoria, B. C., 18th June.

THE WORKINGMEN'S VOTE.

TO THE EDITOR:—The Workingmen's Union of this city has instructed me to contradict a statement made in connection with the election held on Friday last, to the effect that our Union had joined with the Single Tax men in selecting their ticket, or published by dodgers on Thursday last, and calling on the workingmen to show their strength by voting the straight ticket. The members of the Union at a meeting held some days before the election, unanimously selected the Opposition ticket, and pledged themselves to support the same with their votes and influence on the day of the election, which they did to a man. The parties who were instrumental in proposing the so-called Single Tax ticket can rest assured that any influence they ever had on the minds of the workingmen has been completely distroyed. By inserting the above in your paper you will confer a favor on the members of the Victoria Workingmen's Union.

ARTHUR DUTTON, Rec. Sect.

Victoria, June 18, 1890.

In Darkest Africa.

This last and greatest work of the great explorer, H. M. Stanley, will be the only full authentic account of his last three years' expedition in the wilds of Africa. It is Stanley's masterpiece, and without question the most remarkable story of travel, and the most important record of discovery, adventure and unparalleled hardship and heroism ever written. Photographs of all the important discoveries were taken by Mr. Stanley and his staff. They not only verify every new discovery, but serve to illustrate multitudes of curious things better than any words could. In wealth and accuracy of illustrations no previous book of African travel will in anyway compare with the forthcoming one which promises to be in every way worthy of its incomparably interesting subject. Stanley is a veteran explorer, but the results of this latest expedition were a surprise to himself. The civilization of the interior of Africa has been made possible by his achievements. The work will be in two octavo volumes, of over 500 pages each, replete with maps, and amply illustrated from Mr. Stanley's own photographs and sketches. Price and style of binding: Cloth, extra, two volumes, complete, $9; Library, half leather, marbled edges, complete, $10.50; half Morocco, gilt edges, complete, $13; full Morocco, gilt edges, complete, $17.50. It will be sold only by subscription, through authorized agents, to whom exclusive territory will be assigned, and every precaution will be used to protect them therein. J. E. Gill & Co., of Victoria, are appointed the general agents for British Columbia. No agent will be allowed to take orders without having a certificate of agency from the above firm.

PRETTY COMPLIMENTS.

Men and Women Who Know How to Say a Graceful Thing.

When the great Duke of Wellington said: "He always slept well when Stapleton Cotton was on guard," he paid a sterling compliment which must have gratified that officer—if he heard it—as much as a promotion in rank would have done.

A little absurdity about a compliment often gives it point. A Spanish lover is reported to have said to his mistress: "Lend me your eyes; I want to-night to kill a man."

Mrs. Moore, the wife of the poet, was noted for her benevolence to the poor in the vicinity of their country residence. On one occasion a guest observed: "I take it for granted that no one is dying in our neighborhood, or we should not be favored with Mrs. Moore's company."

Not long ago, when a brief matrimonial engagement was broken off, a near relation of the gentleman, one who fully appreciated the high qualities of her from whom the some-time lover was sundered, said to the young lady: "You have only lost an ideal; he has lost a reality." A sweet compliment this, under the circumstances, it seems to us.

A husband's compliment to his wife: They were visitors for a few days at a country house, and on being shown into their room the lady, who was nearer forty than thirty, prepared to take off her bonnet. Now, be it observed that looking-glasses vary very much in quality; some distort and some flatter the countenance.

These different qualities in glass-making are no new things, for we may remember that when Queen Elizabeth was dying she asked for a true glass, into which she had not allowed herself to look for twenty years. The glass that was on the dressing-table on the occasion to which we refer was a delightful one—that is to say, a "flattering" one—and as the lady saw herself reflected in it she merrily exclaimed: "O, what a charming glass! I look about eighteen in it." "It is just like my eyes, then," the husband promptly replied.—Chamber's Journal.

—The reform in the administration of the Baltic provinces has gone into effect. Under the new administration journalists are deprived of the franchise, and the Russian language replaces the German.

CITY POLICE COURT.

(Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C., P. M.)

Chas Wolf charged with being drunk pleaded guilty, and was fined $5 for his fun.

John, an Indian, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was fined a similar amount.

Jimmy Williams, an Indian, was charged with assaulting an Indian woman. He admitted the charge and said he was a little drunk at the time, but that was no excuse, and Chief Sheppard explained to him that nika ticka $10 would keep him out of the scucum house, and he accordingly paid the amount.

John Norris on remand, charged with refusing to support his family, pleaded that his wife's mother was the cause of the trouble. His honor decided to adjourn the case to see if the trouble could not be settled.

R. C. CATHEDRAL BAZAAR.

What Was Done Last Evening—The Fan Drill, Etc., Etc.

In spite of the bad weather, Philharmonic Hall was crowded last evening to overflowing. Of course the young men, and in fact all the men present were the target of the young ladies with the terrible raffle about a hundred of which were being circulated among the crowd. The booths were besieged by the fair sex and pretty well overhauled, but the ladies seemed to have a knack of filling in the place of everything that is sold so that this evening those who attend will have almost as good an assortment to pick from as did those who were present last evening.

At the rise of the curtain the audience pressed forward all eager to see the performance, which they were sure would be all that was promised, and they were not disappointed. The first on the stage was about thirty children, who were seemingly amusing themselves in different plays with which they pass away their time when at home. The scene was very pretty and when this was added to by a chorus, the applause that followed showed how well everyone was pleased. While those present were waiting eagerly for the fan drill, Prof. Sharpe and the Bantly family favored the audience with a few selections. When at last the curtain rose for the drill, necks, legs, and in fact the whole audience were stretched to get a look at the stage on which there were nine young ladies, prettily dressed, under the command of Miss Annie Shaw, who took her part with great coolness, which added to the success of the drill. The other young ladies who filled up the ranks were, Martha Campbell, Katie Burns, Flora O'Brien, Matilda Kerg, Bertha Fiterre, Ella Madigan, Sophie McNiffe and Mary McNiffe. They went through the drill with great exactness, showing that they had spent quite a little time and trouble, or perhaps they were pretty well drilled in the art of using the fan beforehand. The "general flutter," the "scornful," "repellant," "inviting," coquettish" and "angry" flutters were each gone through in turn and received well deserved applause. The military part of the drill, which consisted in "attack," "surrender," "retreat" and "recover," were equally well done, and to satisfy the long applause that followed the formidable looking rank came out and repeated their performance. For those that were not present last evening another drill will be gone through this evening and everyone should attend. This afternoon people were filing in and out, and a large number lunched at the hall.

No Likee the Costs.

The Chinaman who was yesterday ordered by the police magistrate to pay his license and $2, the cost of the summons, went to the city hall this morning and paid the $5 license but emphatically refused to pay the costs. He argued the point for about and hour and very likely would have been arguing yet if Officer Walker had not gruffly hauled him to a cell where he threatened to leave him until he paid the amount. John came up with the necessary cash after his honor had promised him a city appointment for a couple of months if he didn't.

The Use of Pyramids.

Nobody has ascertained the idea of the pyramid builders, and until it is ascertained, it is foolishness to condemn their folly. Those structures—which, after all, have fulfilled one end, having survived not only the people which produced them, but even their ideas—may have been royal tombs, and therefore, useless expenditures of state strength; or they may have been structures intended to record through ages certain astronomical facts, in which case they were evidences of wonderful loftiness of mind; or they may have been set on foot only as palliatives for the social problems of the day—that is, as a method of finding work for multitudes of men who, because the state had absorbed all the surplus wealth of the cultivating classes, could find no one to pay them wages.

Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

STABBED AT NELSON.

A Man Named Gorman Dangerously Stabbed—His Assailant Arrested.

NELSON, June 14.—There was some stir in Nelson last night. Two men, Gorman and Brady by name, being drunk, started an unpleasantness with fists and a stick, and Brady, being the aggressor it appears, was considerably damaged. After a little pause for repairs Brady started in search of the other and found him in his camp some little distance from the houses. Here he stabbed Gorman. It is not certain yet to what extent Gorman is damaged, but as far as can be seen the wound in the upper part of the abdomen has penetrated to the outlet of the stomach and cut it open. In the absence of a doctor the only treatment beyond binding the wound with plaster, was to administer a dose of morphine, but the wounded man had a very bad night spitting blood profusely. Thanks to an injudicious breakfast of pork and beans he is now in high fever and can retain no food. His assailant has been examined before the resident J.P., Mr. Selous, upon a charge of felonious cutting and stabbing and committed for trial at the next Kamloops assizes.

Mr. Brady has not the countenance of the camp as an amateur butcher, and it is the general wish that carving should be reserved for meal times. Promiscuous shooting and stabbing are rather amenities of the Western States than of Western Canada; and it is hoped that during a short period of retirement Mr. Brady will have an opportunity of reflecting upon his hasty and inconsiderate expression of feeling.

Just before closing I heard that serious complications are setting in and the wounded man appears to be in danger. H. R. A. POCOCK.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Short Session—No Very Important Business Done Last Night.

At the regular meeting of the board of aldermen held in the city hall last evening, the chair was filled by Alderman Vigelius, Mayor Grant being absent. Alds. Holland, Robertson, Smith, McKillican, Harrison, Goodacre and Kelly were present. Routine work being complete, Clerk Dowler read the following

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the secretary of the street railway company, stating that the company were about to lay girder rails on Government street.—Referred to committee.

From A. C. Monatt, asking for a drain on Parkington street.—Referred to committee.

From H. Abbott, in reference to passage to Liverpool of a poor man who is to be sent home by the city.—Referred to the Mayor.

From Davie & Bodwell, in reference to the widening of Chatham street, and asking that Mr. W. A. Robertson's appointment as arbitrator be reconsidered.—Referred to committee.

From Willis Bond, asking the city for three loads of gravel.—Referred to committee.

From Lowenberg, Harris & Co., asking for street lines.—Granted.

From E. Aspdin, complaining of the congregation of young toughs known as hoodlums, who gather on the corner of Douglas and Chatham streets.—Referred to superintendent of police with a recommendation that the nuisance be stopped.

From H. G. Hall, stating that W. G. Snyder had been appointed arbitrator on behalf of Jones & McNeil.—Accepted.

From Drake, Jackson & Helmcken, as follows:

To Charles Kent, Esq., Collector, Victoria:

DEAR SIR.—We beg to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of 12th inst., requesting us to forward you our cheque for $12.50 for six months' license from 1st January to 30th June to practice as solicitors in Victoria as per Municipal Act, 1890, clause 19, sec. 168, and By-Law No. 178, clause 19, schedule A.

We respectfully deny the right of the corporation to exact payment of this license fee, notwithstanding the authority you quote, and under which you are acting, as in our opinion it is not within the province of the local legislature to confer any such power on a municipal corporation, inasmuch as the imposition of this particular license fee is not authorized by the British North America Act.

In order, therefore, that we may not be prejudiced in the assertion of what we consider our rights, should the occasion arise, we have much pleasure in herewith enclosing our cheque for $12.50, which we do under protest. Yours truly,

DRAKE, JACKSON & HELMCKEN.

Victoria, June 17, 1890.

Referred to committee.

From Wm. Northcott, reporting that he had prepared the assessment valuations for the year 1890 as follows: Upon land, $6,318,474; improvements, $3,041,-639; total, $9,360,004. The 1889 assessment was: Land, $6,256,783; improvements, $2,692,120; total, $8,948,903.—Received and referred to committee.

From F. Pauline, asking whether the city would assist towards the Saturday afternoon concerts at Beacon Hill.—Referred to committee.

NEW BY-LAWS.

The amendment of the revenue by-law for 1890 was read a first time.

A notice of by-law to fix the rate of assessment for 1890 was filed.

TRIAL HOLES.

The notice of Ald. Harrison, asking for $500 to make trial holes on the proposed line of the main sewer, was read.

Ald. Robertson asked the distance apart of the holes.

Ald. Harrison thought that it would depend a great deal on the character of the land, as some of it was well known while in other places it was not.

Ald. Robertson thought that it would be a useless expenditure, as unless the holes were put every twenty feet it would be of no use, in consequence of the irregular character of the soil.

On being put to the vote the motion carried.

REPORTS.

From the street committee, recommending that bicycle riders be allowed to use the suburban sidewalks, and also that in reference to extension of Birdcage walk, were not prepared to give financial aid.

HOTEL PLANS.

The council went into committee of the whole at 8:45 p.m. to inspect the plans of the Canadian Western Hotel, submitted by Messrs Redon & Johnson, who asked for immunity from taxes and concessions on water for a certain number of years, and also security of good sewerage.

When the committee rose it was carried that Messrs. Redon and Johnson be requested to submit their request in writing.

The board then rose.

ENGINEERS WON'T STAND IT.

No Reduction of Pay for Them—The Union Solid.

Manager Howard of the Pacific Coast S.S. Co. has lately been reducing the pay of the cooks and stewards of the boats of that company, and although much kicking was done the men had to submit.—Last Thursday, while the City of Puebla was loading at San Francisco for Sound ports and Victoria, her third engineer received notification that the powers that be had an important communication to make. He came into the saloon in a state of nervous anxiety at possible promotion beckoning him gaily on. But these were soon dispelled, and in their place came a feeling as of faintness. Manager Howard informed the manipulator of steam as a gigantic force that he would in the future be compelled to labor for $5 worth of glory each month, as the company could not afford to pay him more than $60 for that period of service. It is here that Mr. Howard has met his first snag in his cruise for retrenchment.

Neither the cooks or the stewards are organized into unions, but the Marine Engineers is one of the most powerful organizations in the world. The third engineer quickly carried his tale of woe to his chief, and was informed by the latter not to submit to the reduction, but to take his case to the union. A committee from the latter waited upon Manager Howard just before the ship left San Francisco upon her last trip. For the present, the matter is in abeyance, Howard telling the committee that he was not prepared to give a definite answer. Those of the ship's officers spoken to upon the subject while she was in port yesterday gave it as their opinion that the matter would be amicably arranged, as the company can not afford trouble.

Marine engineering is an exceptionally skillful profession, a certificate of competency being required in the labor. There appears to be no doubt but that should the company insist upon reducing the wages of this department, there will be trouble, possibly a general strike.

Protested Election.

It is learned from parties who are in the city from Vancouver that the election of Mr. Horne is likely to be protested. Mr. Sam Greer is on the war path, and it was understood that the necessary deposit was to have been made yesterday afternoon.

Curiosity.

We have in our office a specimen of the writing and spelling of a pupil of a country school who received the Provincial Roll of Honor in proficiency last June. It certainly shows some defect in the system of teaching or in the granting of these rolls of honor. The "Minister of Education" may see this specimen by calling at the TIMES office.

Dangerous.

A case of very careless disposal of ashes was to-day brought to the notice of the Chief Engineer. A wooden box was found on the second floor of the block recently occupied by the Y. M. C. A. full of ashes, while next to it was a large lot of papers. As a fire trap it was a pronounced success, and might easily have been the cause of an extensive blaze. Chief Deasy gave orders to have the ashes removed at once, and no more to be put there.

Electricity for Nanaimo.

A 500 light Ball dynamo for Nanaimo came through from the east last night, consigned to Mr. R. B. McMicking, the agent of the Ball company for this province. The machine will be forwarded immediately to the Black Diamond city, the wires and all arrangements being ready for it, and in a few days Nanaimo will be illuminated by that most modern of agents, electricity. This dynamo is the first Ball on the incandescent principle installed in the province.

Domestic Economy.

Fifteen hundred washboards were part of the steamer Kingston's cargo last night from the eastern states. This indicates that considerable washing is to be done in Victoria; and also that it is to be done at home. The abominable way that the Chinese clean clothes has long been a source of annoyance to most housewives, and since the advent here of a class of white servants who are willing to go out as laundresses, a great many families have the week's wash done at home, the work being better and cheaper done.

A Brilliant Spectacle.

The annual gathering of the Grand Lodge of K. of P. representatives at Milwaukee on the first of July is to be celebrated in great style. One of the principal events will be on the evening of July the 10th, when fifty-eight set pieces of fireworks will be let off. The display will consist of beautiful representations of emblems and mottoes of the order, flights of rockets and elaborate floral designs. It will take nearly two hours to set off the display, which will be one of the grandest of the kind ever given. In addition to this there will be exhibition drills for prizes, the chief one of which will be for $1,000. Prizes for bands, etc., are also to be given.

Gilbert Parker.

Of Mr. Gilbert Parker, who appears in St. Andrew's Hall, on Monday and Wednesday evenings of next week, the New Australian of Perth, Australia, says: "Of earnest presence and striking personality, Mr. Gilbert Parker has fascinating platform qualities. His readings from his own stories were full of marvellous power, of quaint suggestion, and of thrilling interest. 'The Strike at Bamber's Room' and 'That Fiddle of Adam Henry's' were things never to be forgotten by the hearty and brilliant audience that greeted him. The Sydney Daily Telegraph said: 'Quaint and powerfully dramatic poems recited by the author, a dramatist of note.'"

Enterprise That Pays.

The handsomest sample rooms in the city are those of the new firm of Richardson, Heathorn & Jones, at Gregg & Son's old stand on Yates street. The firm represents some of the largest manufacturing and jobbing houses in this country and Europe, and carry full lines of samples from each house on their list. The samples are conveniently arranged for rapid inspection, so that a buyer has but little difficulty in making his selections. In the millinery department the floor is handsomely carpeted, and the room especially arranged for the accommodation of ladies who may select stock, for the houses they represent. Merchants throughout the province appreciate the accommodations and courtesy of this enterprising firm, when they visit the Queen City.

Yellow Oil has done good work for 30 years in curing muscular rheumatism, lumbago, croup, quinsy, colds, sprains, bruises, burns and all pains and aches. It is equally good for man or beast.

VICTORIA WEST PARK

REAL ESTATE NOTICE.

Commencing on or before July 1st, we shall place the whole of Block 6 and part of Block 8, on Esquimalt Road, on the market for sale, subdivided into lots.

The greatest portion of this land is one large garden. It faces on Esquimalt Road and West Bay. The Electric Tramway runs in front of the Property. The Esquimalt Water Works will supply water.

The terms of purchase will be such that the smallest capitalist will be able to procure a home within ten minutes' ride of the Postoffice. Electric light will also be supplied by the Tramway Company.

This, without exception, is some of the finest suburban property ever placed upon the Victoria market.

No one is authorized to act as our agents to sell.

BOURCHIER, CROFT & MALLETTE, COLONIST BLOCK, VICTORIA, B.C.

BRIEF LOCALS.

Briefly Related.

A Leonard engine and boiler for Mr. Wm. Grimm's carriage factory is lying on the C. P. N. wharf.

Four large drums of copper wire for the Esquimalt extension of the electric street railway arrived last night.

The monthly instalments of the Nanaimo relief fund was paid by the hon. treasurer at the company's office to-day.

A complaint that was read in the council last evening in regard to the hoodlum nuisance deserves immediate attention.

The street car company have given notice that they intend to double track on Government street. Where will the cabs stand then?

A large quantity of oil for lubricating and illuminating purposes, consigned to the naval storekeeper at Esquimalt, arrived from the east last night.

A majority of the business houses of Nanaimo have decided to have a half holiday on Thursday afternoon, commencing at 12:30 to-day.

During the excitement at the fire this morning a Chinamen got his finger caught in a machine at Gray's mill, and tore it almost completely off.

The trouble with most strawberry boxes is that the vendors won't turn them upside down, and measure your quart in the hollow portion underneath.

The Japanese owners of the smuggling sloop seized at Port Townsend have been fined $1000, and the sloop held subject to sale if the fine is not paid.

A house on Pandora street was visited last night by a couple of burglars who tried the doors but being attacked by the watch dog they decided not to make further attempts to effect an entrance and left.

Three suicides in one day was the record of Seattle on Tuesday. A lawyer named J. C. Thornton, a laborer named J. N. Hansen, and a hanger-on at a variety theatre named J. B. Sherin shuffled off the mortal coil by self murder.

The city architects of New Westminster have been invited to send in plans and specifications for the new public library, which is to take the place of the ruin now occupying so much valuable space.

Special mention should be made of the painting of Goodacre Lake by Mrs. Rossi, which has been donated to the R. C. bazaar, and which will be raffled off. The painting is true to nature, and will make a handsome addition to some parlor.

It has been reported that the captain of the steamer Danube was held up by two tough characters the other evening out by the outer wharf. Captain Hill showed fight, however, and promptly knocked one of the prospective footpads down, and the other fled like a deer, evidently not caring to risk an encounter with the man from the sea.

The irrigation problem is receiving consideration in remote sections of the earth, and is bound to have a remarkable effect upon the commerce of the future. In Egypt a reservoir, originally utilized by Joseph, has been discovered in the desert, and it is proposed to re-open it. It formerly covered 250 square miles and was 240 feet deep. It is calculated that this vast reservoir would add 3,200,000 acres to the 6,000,000 acres now under cultivation in the land of the Khedive.

A Foreday Blaze.

At quarter of 12 to-day an alarm was rung in from box 25, the engine house of S. Leiwy's steam saw mill being in a blaze. The department got out in double quick, and a stream from No. 3 was seen on, supplemenring one already laid by the mill employees with hose kept on the premises. The fire was extinguished, although the contents of the upper part of the building, which was used as a dry house, were badly burnt. The fire started from loose shavings near the smoke stack becoming ignited. The damage is nominal.

F. Richards, the Champion Boot Black, formerly with W. Whittaker, has taken an 18 months' lease of the Gem barber shop window, 74 Yates street, opposite the Poodle Dog. Call and get a patent leather shine.

Next Thursday

Is the day for the great prize drawing at Russell, McDonald & Co.'s, opposite the Iron Church, Douglas street. Tickets can be obtained until that time.

Baker Elected.

A telegram from Donald to the TIMES says that all the returns from East Kootenay are now in, giving Baker a majority of three. Baker received 27 and Law 9 votes in the polling places heard from.

First Presbyterian Church.

There will be no prayer meeting in the First Presbyterian church to-night, as the building for a day or two is not in a fit condition to be occupied; but services will (D. V.) be held in the school room next Sunday at the usual hours.

Coming North.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19—The steamer Umatilla sailed this morning with the following passengers for Victoria: Mrs. Spencer; Miss F. Webster, Miss M. Popper, John Rice, Mrs. J. Hampton, R. Turnbull, J. R. Giscome, P. Graham, wife and daughter.

Speedy Trials.

J. Williams appeared before Justice Drake this morning under the Speedy trials Act to answer to a charge of robbery. Against the advice of his counsel, Mr. J. P. Walls, he pleaded not guilty, but the case was conclusively proven, and Williams was sent up for 12 months hard labor.

Runaway.

A lively runaway took place on Johnson street this afternoon. A span of horses attached to a farmer's wagon took fright at Porters' butcher shop and ran up Johnson, along Blanchard, down Pandora, and out Douglas, and where they stopped is not known. A number of calves, with their feet tied, which were on the wagon, had a lively time while it lasted.

Wellington Strike.

There seems to be no probability, says the Free Press, of the employers and employees of the Wellington mines arriving at a satisfactory arrangement; every thing remains in statu quo. Mr. Tully Boyce, President of the Association, is still believed to be in San Francisco making arrangements that he considers suitable for the benefit of the miners.

Married.

Mr. Dennis McKinnon and Miss Agnes Wilson were married in the new Methodist church, Nanaimo, on Tuesday evening. Rev. W. W. Baer officiated. Mrs. Cunliffe acted the part of bridesmaid, and Mr. Alex. McKinnon, brother of the groom, stood in the place of groomsman. In accord with the usual custom, Rev. Mr. Baer presented the couple with a handsome Bible and hymn book, they being the first pair to join hearts and hands in the new church.

A Suggestion.

The city of Victoria is the owner of a powerful and efficient road roller, familiarly known as Jumbo, but instead of being kept at work smoothing down the projecting and sharp points of the freshly laid metal on the streets, Jumbo is utilized as a motive force to drive the rock crusher to make more metal. It seems to an outside and suffering public that it would be better for everybody if Jumbo was kept road rolling and a donkey engine used at the crusher. The streets would be kept in better repair if this was done, beside a great deal of wrontge, wear and tear would be saved to vehicles and their drivers. As it is freshly strewn road metal was smoothed down. The roads would keep in better order, too, as the macadam would be harder and better packed. The street committee's attention is respectfully directed to this suggestion.

Baby Buggies, the finest and largest assortment in the city at low prices, from $3.50 up, at J. Sehl's 88 Government street.

Death's Hand.

Mrs. Francis May Cowper, wife of H. Cowper, died at her residence, Boyd street last evening of congestion of the lungs after only a few days illness. The deceased lady was well known in Victoria, having resided here since 1875. She was a native of England and aged 51 years. Two sons and a sorrowing husband are left to mourn her loss. The funeral will take place on Sunday at 2 o'clock from the residence and 2:30 from the Reformed Episcopal church.

Special Card.

As the public have so generously contributed to the success of my great reduction sale, I am induced to continue it for one month longer on the same terms. Here are the most liberal prices ever offered in British Columbia or elsewhere: $10 pants for $7, $12 pants for $8, $14 pants for $10, $16 pants for $12, $30 suits for $25, $35 suits for $30, $40 suits for $35. All work guaranteed a perfect fit or no sale. J. McCallum, "The famous Californian Tailor," 43 Fort street, Victoria, B. C. Prompt and careful attention to letter orders. Samples mailed. my29-1m

A Laughable Mistake.

The Knights of Pythias, in their initiation ceremonies, have, it is reported, a very interesting and impressive part where a startling tableau is made more effective by burning red fire. This feature was the cause of some excitement in a Wisconsin town the other evening when the red glare caused by the fire shone through the blinds of the hall, the chief of the fire department seeing it turned in an alarm, thinking a destructive conflagration was in progress. When the firemen tried to get into the lodge room there was trouble, as they didn't have the proper passwords and grips. Explanations were made by the outside sentinel, and the firemen left satisfied. Such a mistake would be hardly possible in Victoria, as Chief Deasy is familiar with the peculiar ways of the Sir Knights.

Don't Play With the Bears.

The bear Jenny at Beacon Hill was guilty of a most unpardonable breach of good manners this morning, and frightened a lady most seriously. Mrs. Kosche has been in the habit of calling at the bear pit in the mornings, while out for an early walk, and invariably gave to the ursine tenants a piece of cake or candy, which is much relished by their bearships. This morning Mrs. Kosche noticed that the collar on Jenny's neck was very tight, and not thinking that the bear would misconstrue her motive, reached over to feel the collar with a view of loosening it. Jenny, however, evidently thought her keeper meant to play, or else wished to play, probably the latter, and seized Mrs. Kosche's arm with sharp claws. The lady did not cry out, but tried to pull away. Jenny would not let go, and a sharp wrench was necessary to get clear, the best part of the sleeve of the lady's jacket being left in Jenny's strong grip. Mrs. Kosche thinks that the action of Jenny was a poor return for the kindness shown.

Alberni Notes.

Rev. Joseph Hall, Methodist minister is expected to arrive on Friday to join in the bonds of matrimony Mr. E. Grandy to Miss McKenzie, both residents of Alberni.

A petition has been circulated and signed by the settlers in the district asking the Government to remit the $200 deposit made by Mr. Mollett, who can ill afford to lose that amount.

Mr. K. McKenzie was re-elected school trustee.

Mr. A. P. Proctor, the popular and able school teacher of Alberni, has resigned his position, much to the regret of the settlement, and leaves for the University at Montreal to study for the ministry.

A numerously attended social was given at Alberni on the 12th instant in aid of the purchase of an organ for the church. It was a social as well a financial success.

Mr. Faber, who has purchased 1200 acres of land in Alberni, has arrived with his family. A number of other settlers are on the way.

A team of horses ran away with Mr. Gus Cox, throwing him out of the wagon the wheels of which went over him, injuring him severely, but he now is able to be about.

Mr. M. M. Sarrault met with a severe accident by falling off the water wheel of his saw mill to the rocks below.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

G. A. Huff, Alberni, is in town.

Captain Glaholm of Nanaimo is in town.

Gideon Robertson of Vancouver is in the city.

Thos. Mowatt, Inspector of Fisheries, is in the city.

C. E. Mallette and wife were passengers for San Francisco yesterday.

C. C. McKenzie, member elect for Nanimo District, came down to-day.

Wm. Smith, the fireman who was made ill at the late Government street blaze, is able to be about. His many friends are congratulating him upon his recovery, which for a time was doubtful.

J. H. McKenzie and Richard Tuthill, of Toronto, who were in the city for several days, have left for home. Both gentlemen were favorably impressed with the Province, and more especially the beautiful city of Victoria. Mr. McKenzie is brother of Mr. W. G. McKenzie of this city, and there is every probability that both gentlemen will return to this place and make it their home.

A Patent in Court.

Some time ago it was announced through the Vancouver papers that a device had been invented in that city, by Mr. Henry Russell, for loading and unloading freight on vessels, which would completely revolutionize all former methods. A suit in connection with this matter came up in the Supreme Court to-day before Chief Justice Begbie. Mr. Russell brought an action against Mr. Gideon Robertson for $8000 damages for an alleged non-fulfillment of contract. After the invention was made one-third interest was sold to Mr. Robertson for $800, one-third being paid down and the balance to be paid when it had been demonstrated that the invention was a money and labor saving appliance. On a test being made the machine did not work satisfactorily, as the plaintiff admitted in court, a few improvements being necessary. Mr. Robertson declined to invest any more money in the affair, in consequence of which the plaintiff alleges that he has been unable to use his patent, and that this has caused him great loss of money.

NAUTICAL NOTES.

Items of Interest Along the Water Front—General Marine News.

The boiler has been placed in the new steamer Bon Accord.

The boilers of the steam yacht Mascotte have been repaired and tested.

The steamer Edith, which has been thoroughly overhauled by the Albion Iron Works, will leave for Port Townsend to-morrow.

The wreck of the steamer J. B. Libby, which was burned to the water's edge in the Straits last winter, has been sold for $1500. This includes the boilers and engines.

A pair of stern wheel engines are to be built by Messrs. Spratt & Gray for M. G. Terhune, of Westminster. The engines will be 8 inch cylinders by 36 inch stroke. The hull of the boat is being built at New Westminster.

The steamer Straits of Belle Isle has been chartered by the C. P. R. to make one voyage from Hongkong to Vancouver, owing to the large increase of freight on this route. She leaves Hongkong on June 19th, Yokohama July 3rd, and will reach Vancouver about July 22nd. This steamer has no first-class accommodation, so that only Asiatic steerage passengers can be booked.

The firemen and coal passers of the steam schooner Al-Ki struck on Tuesday upon her arrival at Tacoma. The men claim that before leaving San Francisco the Coast Seamen's Union visited the officers of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company and made a demand that the firemen of the Al-Ki be furnished with two coal passers, and that the sailors be made to hoist ashes, which demands were acceded to, but that, while at sea, Captain Hill refused to allow the sailors to hoist ashes, but offered to give each watch an extra coal passer, which the men refused to accept. They demanded their money this morning, but it was refused.

Baby carriages of latest styles just received by John Weiler, 51 to 55 Fort street.

Arrived.

Bass XXXX Ale (Lamb's Wool) at the Occidental Hotel bar.
